Positively Villainous, Dodolivin's Half Moon Chair

There have been comparisons drawn to the Batman theme and I certainly see that with Dodolivin's Half Moon Chair, but to me it looks like something that a depraved master villain would want to have in his or her lair. There are pointy bits to gore yourself on and a color scheme that is nothing if not garish. Do I like it? I love it, especially so because it comes with a matching ottoman. What more could you want?

There is no word on price, which indicates that it is probably prohibitively expensive, but it never hurts to ask.

Smartchair, A Teched Up Concept Seat

Gadgets, Site Feeds, uberreview.com

The Smartchair is a plush looking seat with a bit of onboard intelligence, put there to make sure that your seat is in the most comfortable position for you at all times. It is fitted out with sensors and adjustable seating pads that can be set to achieve maximum comfort. A touch screen handles the settings.

The Smartchair is a concept at the moment, so there is no word on price but things like touch screens and embedded sensors kinda hint that this is going to be on the
